According to the Botswana Training Authority (BOTA) report of 2010, Hotel and catering programs were amongst the training programmes forecasted and identified as priority vocational skills to be fast-tracked for skills development. Hotel and catering programmes were ranked 14 as a critical skill and priority skill (page 145-148). Professional Chef and patisserie were indicated as one of the key elements of the skill which is needed in the industry or sector such as hotels and other short-stay accommodation e.g. lodges, campsites, restaurants, cafes, canteen and hospitals. (page 155)

The report goes on to state that, even although tourism skills are forecast in the economic forecast to be oversupply by 2016, there is an apparent shortage of cooking and hospitality skills.(page 155)

High skills in cooking and other hospitality services are required to support the planned promotion of the tourism and health industries. The employer's survey also shows a high number of current vacancies and strong potential in this area. (page 155)

The Human Resources Development Council (HRDC) Interim Sector Skills in Demand report of December 2016, under the tourism sector skills section also highlighted Chefs / Executive Chef as a skill in demand in the industry.

The Human Resources Development Council (HRDC) Priority Skills and Employment Trends report also highlighted a forecast of 4 397 cooks are going to be needed in the industry from 2019 to 2028 inclusive (page 3) The report also states that for the Tourism industry, Chefs specializing as Executive Chefs, Sous Chefs, Pastry Chefs, Pastry Chefs who are trained in Culinary Arts (Food Preparation (menu, dishes), Outdoor Cooking, Food Safety and Hygiene and Managing Kitchen Staff technical skills are going to be needed in the industry (page 14).

The Botswana Tourism Board noted in its Skills Gap Analysis that there is no specific academic and training institute that provides practical and specific courses required for the tourism industry e.g. stock control, food cost, menu planning. It suggested that current institutions do not offer training appropriate to a five-star or premium establishment (BTO, 2009, page 54).

In addition to the 2009 research, the Qualification Developer researched with employers in 2013 for the Culinary Programmes at Diploma levels in collaboration with 30 companies from the Tourism Industry and 13 Organisations / Associations from the Education and Tourism Sector (DTVET Hospitality & Tourism Validation Document. Page 27,28 & 31).

A conclusion deduced from both the reports have necessitated the development of this qualification.
